More poor needed to qualify for city jobs

ALBANY — Very few Albany residents are poor enough to qualify for hiring under the city's public employment program.

This shortage has led the city council to consider asking the federal government to liberalize its guidelines and allow people with higher income status to participate in the CETA program.

The problem was discussed by council members Monday night, with surprise expressed at the fact that a person receiving social security does not qualify.

Councilman Mike Gleason noted that a person must be below the "poverty line", for example, a family of four members receiving an income of less than $7,200 per year, and not employed for at least 15 weeks.

Public Works Director Robert Guletz told the council that he has been able to hire several people for the city's senior citizens home repair and services program. But he has been unsuccessful in finding enough local residents for another CETA program relating to public works. Both programs are temporary.

Guletz said he has two eligible persons ready to work, but he needs at least five more. All efforts to find more eligible residents have failed, he said.

Councilman Lewis Howell declared that he believes that there are more qualified people in the city, but he was uncertain how they can be reached.

It was indicated that another problem is pursuading poor people that they should work on the city projects.

Some local residents would be willing to give up their social security to get a city job, but they are afraid they could not get back on the SS roles when the city work ends, Councilman Pat Griffin commented.

Mayor Joyce Jackson suggested that an effort be made to pursuade the federal bureaucracy to relax its regulations, making more unemployed persons eligible.

She said many people in Albany "need work" although they are not poor enough under the guidelines.

There was discussion about the differences in pay and living costs across the country, with the Bay Area being among highest. Whether federal guidelines take this into consideration was not known by the council or staff.

Characters looking out of old Daguerreotypes

By WOODY JOHANNES
I-G Staff Writer

ALBANY — Men dead a century or more stared sternly from Daguerreotypes lining the long glass showcase in Pilecki's Antique Camera and Image Exchange. No one, during the 1860s, smiled for the photographer. Most looked as though they'd like to annihilate him.

But having one's visage preserved for posterity was a serious matter, in 19th Century America, and Victorians faced the camera emulating Napoleon. At Elba.

Even more grim is a group of post-mortem shots. "Loved ones" were photographed in coffins and on their deathbeds, all looking as forbidding as their surviving contemporaries.

The only optimistic views of the period are the architectural and landscape photos — subjects that weren't trying to impress anyone. Most impressive, however, in this collection of old pictures on display in the shop at 1109 Solano Ave., is the remarkable quality of the photos.

"They're practically grainless", Graham Pilecki said. "The old Daguerreotype was made on a copper plate coated with silver and exposed to iodine, which created a light-sensitive silver-iodine plate. The exposed plate was developed in mercury vapor to create a positive image. No negative was involved in the process. The finished plate was given a water-rinse and dried over a spirit lamp."

But the method did have some drawbacks. Coating the plate was a cumbersome procedure, and its reaction to light was so slow that earlier camera's had to expose it for 60 minutes in strong sunlight to get even a faint image. Improvements in chemical compounds during the decade following Daguerre's invention finally reduced the exposure to "about 60 seconds".

"That was when it became feasible to photograph live subjects", Pilecki said. "There were a few old timers who could hold still for quite some time, however. Several very early Daguerreotype portraits are still around."

A greater obstacle was air pollution. In tightly-closed darkrooms the mercury vapor was lethal, and a photographer over 35 years old became a rarity.

"Reducing exposure and development times solved two problems", Graham commented. "It decreased the still-life limitations of the camera and increased the life-expectancy of the photographer.

"It was at this juncture that the Daguerreotype came to America. We have a hundred or more of the Daguerreos in our collection, most of which were made between 1839 and 1850.

"A Daguerreotype of an unidentified subject is worth $15 to $20 today. Celebrities' pictures, of course, are worth much more. Recently a Daguerreotype of Edgar Allen Poe brought $9,000 at a New York auction."

Among the celebrities catalogued in the Pilecki collection are author Victor Hugo and abolitionist Frederick Douglas, whose photos are printed on Cartes de Visite (calling cards), and cabinet prints (approximately postcard size) of Sarah Bernhardt, William "Buffalo Bill" Cody and Ella Chapman.

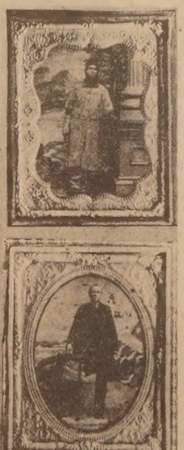

Graham also has a number of "tin-types" which replaced the Daguerreotype about 1880. Included in the latter group are shots of earthquake stricken San Francisco in 1906. The japanned metal dry plates were coated with chemicals of greater light sensitivity and were simpler and faster to use and process. The old "TT" remained on the photographic markets until 1924.

But long before the demise of the tintype George Eastman had patented the flexible film — a roll of silver-nitrate coated celluloid that was extremely fast (by turn-of-the-century standards), inexpensive, and safe to handle in the darkroom.

Eastman's new-fangled films have obtained little recognition, to date, however, among connoisseurs of antique photographs.

"Today collectors are interested primarily in the authentic Daguerreotypes", Graham assured us. "This

Interim city executive appointed

ALBANY — Charles (Chick) Martin, retired city manager of Anderson, Calif., will be Albany's interim city administrator until mid-September.

Martin's appointment Monday night by the city council will run until the post can be filled permanently by William Haden who is leaving his job as city administrator of Fairfax.

The council last night also adopted a contract with Hadden, providing for a $35,000 salary, compared to the $25,000 he had been receiving in Fairfax.

Martin will receive the same pay rate as Haden.

Martin will begin work today, having arrived in the East Bay Monday, the audience was told.

It was indicated that he will be busy with many city

Administrator welcomes 'New opportunities offered by Albany'

By NORMAN COLBY
I-G Staff Writer

ALBANY — William Haden, the 39-year-old city administrator of Fairfax who will assume similar duties in Albany, was not given up easily by his employers in Marin County.

Haden,prior to being offered the Albany City Administrator's post, was offered a $3,000 raise to remain in Fairfax, but it fell far short of the inducements Albany was dangling.

Albany will be giving Haden $35,000 per year, well above his current $25,000 salary, and, one would assume, greater professional challenges.

Haden's salary here will go to $36,000 at the end of the first year and $37,000 at the end of the second year under an agreement with the city council which also provides for three weeks vacation and $160 per month transportation expenses.

At the end of the second year, Haden will be making nearly as much as veteran Albany City Administrator James Turner, who was forced to resign after 16 years of service.

Haden, a native of Modesto, will bring to Albany 13 years of governmental experience.

Graduated from Watsonville High School and the University of California, Berkeley, with a degree in public administration, he obtained a master's degree from San Jose State University. Haden served as radar evaluation officer in the U.S. Air Force before going to work in the Santa Clara County executive's office, working his way up to supervising administrative analist in seven years.

He then became assistant city manager in Pittsburg, remaining there for three years before taking the Fairfax city administrator position three years ago.

Haden is stepping up in ways other than salary.

In Fairfax, he dealt with a population of nearly 8,000 compared to Albany's 15,500. The Fairfax city budget is something over $1 million, compared to Albany's $5.6 million. Both cities provide basic services.

Haden told the I-G: "My approach is to get there, look at the situation, identify the problems as I see them and start to deal with them."

He is married, with three children.

Recall group selects 'Candidates' Committee'

ALBANY — A "Candidates Committee," headed by V. M. Chester, has been appointed by the Albany Recall committee, to select the best possible candidates to replace Mayor Jackson and Councilmen Griffin and Gleason following the Nov. 15 recall election."

"We are well aware that citizens may vote to fill the vacancies by appointment rather than by special election," Chester said. "In either case, we intend to have a slate of qualified candidates to present for consideration.

"The Recall committee is open-minded, as to individuals who will make up the slate of three candidates and the committee will be happy to talk with anyone who wishes to serve on City Council and would like the support of the Recall committee, which intends to remain active through the city election on April 11, 1978, when those it supports would logically be prime candidates for full terms.

"We have set guidelines, and we insist on these general qualifications: unimpeachable character; proven mature judgment, regardless of age; a vital concern with issues important to all people of Albany and a track record of activity in civic or community affairs in Albany.

Chester said political party affiliation "is of no significance, but the committee has no desire to waste time talking to political extremists or those backed by interests outside of Albany.

"Those interested in being interviewed are being asked to call E. L. Hood at 525-1714," Chester added.

"The Recall committee is working hard at this time to ensure the success of the recall and we intend to work just as hard to support those candidates we believe can best serve Albany.

"We understand the close-knit group supporting Jackson, Griffin and Gleason is selecting its own candidates to replace them — from their own group, of course. That is another reason we are now ready to start looking at candidates so we will have a slate ready, willing and able to run as soon as the recall is effective," he concluded.

Members of the Albany Recall committee will conduct a garage sale at 624 Key Route Blvd., Saturday between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m., Recall chairman Janis Mulhall said.

"Readers may call me at 525-5528, or Bernard Johnson, 525-8680," she said.

Urban development strategy denounced

ALBANY — The head of organized Real Estate in California urged San Joaquin Valley Realtors to join in opposition to the State's recently proposed Urban Development Strategy, which he termed an "unrealistic and bureaucratic" approach to future development.

Speaking before Valley Realtors from a five-county area in Modesto, Jerome Blank of Albany, president of the 100,000-member California Association of Realtors, said his organization "strongly opposes" the strategy authored by William Press of the State Office of Planning and Research.

The plan is currently being presented in public hearings throughout the state.

Blank said that members of his association have been appearing at these hearings to speak against what he called "a serious erosion" of the powers of local elected governments.

"The rights of property owners are being chiseled away by an-ever growing bureaucracy," Blank said.

"The State's proposed Urban Development Strategy Plan takes decision-making powers away from local elected officials and puts them in the hands of appointed regional

Tidelands bill clears Assembly

ALBANY — Plans for Albany's Marina advanced a legal notch this week with the Assembly's approval of AB 1383. The measure presented by Assemblyman Tom Bates received 77 ayes and no dissenting votes.

Representing Albany at a subsequent session of the Senate's government organization committee were City Attorney Larry Saler, City Engineer Bob Guletz, and Ruth Ganong, member of Albany's Waterfront Committee.

"Next step," Mrs. Ganong said today, "is the finance committee, but since no funds are involved there should be no difficulty here. Then the measure will go to the Senate floor of course, and we feel certain it will be approved by the upper house.

"Fortunately,' she added, "AB 1383 has the blessings

BART passenger load continues to increase

OAKLAND—For the first two weeks in July (excluding the 4th of July holiday and the one day disruption on July 8), BART's ridership has continued to rise, reaching a daily average of 138,611, with four days seeing over 140,000 during this period.

The new high average represents 8,000 more trips than for the first two weeks in July, 1976, when the average daily ridership was 130,425.

Daily ridership for May averaged 135,665 and 135,347 in April.

The forecast for June, according to the transit district's analysts, projected average daily ridership to be 131,000, based on historical growth trends.

Revenue generated during the 22 weekdays of operations in June amounted to an average of about $103,182 per day, using a base average trip fare paid of 75.7 cents.

Also night patronage (trips taken after 8 p.m.) continued to rise showing a 5.3 percent increase over May with persons taking an average of 7,424 trips per day.

BART officials attribute the continued rise in patronage to a combination of factors. These would include various service improvements such as longer trains, fewer delays, and a general building of public awareness of the desitnation possibilities offered by the system.

Total ridership for the month of June was approximately 4 million, with better than 1.2 million trips being made transbay.

To date BART has carried 115 million riders 1.6 billion passenger miles.

"Persons interested and desiring to be heard are asked to attend the hearing."

AC buses will carry route signs at rear

OAKLAND — First steps toward equipping its fleet of buses with rear route signs have been taken by AC Transit.

The signs, which tell would-be passengers the number of the bus they should run for — or maybe just missed — have frequently been sought by the public, but have presented technical problems.

Evaluation of two signs led this week to authorization by the Board of Directors to seek bids for purchase of 150 sign assemblies to equip all buses at the Richmond Division.

Cost of the 150 signs was estimated at $9,800, with 80 percent to be funded by the Urban Mass Transportation Administration under a current capital grant. Funds to equip the remaining buses in the fleet would be included in a current $17 million application for a new capital improvement grant.

The recommended sign has been developed on the AC Transit property. Specifications will include features which prevent tampering and vandalism.

Technician's course slated

OAKLAND — A special one-year course designed to prepare individuals for a career as Eligibility Technician 1 with the Alameda County Welfare Department will be offered at Merritt College in the fall semester.

councils of government whn do not have to answer to the people."

Blank said the proposed strategy would increase the State's role giving it the power to "design or limit" industrial development and its impact on jobs and tax availability at the local level.

"It would give the state power to manipulate the location of new industry where the community wants it," he told the Valley-area Realtors. "It also includes the discouragement of the building of single family homes, and you, in particular, know the importance of new home construction to areas such as Modesto and the Central Valley.

"We don't say we should have runaway growth without some kind of controls, but this is dangerous, "Blank continued, "and we must continue to express our opposition and point of view on behalf of California property owners."

He said the plan does not address itself to the realities of the marketplace and would only add further restrictions to the development of new needed housing and jobs throughout the state. He urged Realtors and the public to contact their legislators to oppose these new state controls.

Haden, hired to replace 16-year veteran City Administrator James Turner, will remain on the Fairfax payroll long enough for the city council there to seek or obtain a replacement.

In other business, the council:

—Expressed concern about apparent lack of progress in the establishment of an experimental noise barrier along BART tracks. Mayor Joyce Jackson said she received assurances from BART Director Art Shartsis that the transit district is attempting to obtain federal funding for the project. Shartsis has said there may be problems of heat retained by the barriers affecting the train motors and brakes.

—Scheduled a public hearing for Sept. 26 for an application to build a 12-unit condominium at the northwest corner of Adams and Buchanan Streets. Applicant is Jerome Blank.

—Announced that a public workshop on housing programs for senior citizens will be held all-day August 24, beginning at 9:30 a.m. at the Senior Center on Masonic Avenue. This will include discussion of the CETA Title 6 home repair program for senior citizens.

Deadline Times on Senior tax claims

ALBANY — The last day elderly Californians can file for State property tax or rent assistance is Aug. 31, according to word received here today.

Donald Whitney, director of the Senior Citizens Programs for the Franchise Tax Board, urged all eligible individuals who have not yet filed their claims to do so immediately. This is the first year that both older renters and homeowners are eligible for refunds, Whitney said.

Enacted by the State Legislature last year, the Senior Citizens Rent Assistance Law authorizes refunds of part of the property taxes assumed to be included in rent paid. To qualify, the renter must be 62 years of age as of Jan. 1, 1977, and have had a total household income last year of $5,000 or less.

The Senior Citizens Property Tax Assistance Law, which provides refunds of a portion of property taxes paid was substantially liberalized this year. Homeowners 62 years or older, who live in their home and have a total household income of $12,000 or less, may qualify for refunds. The income limit last year was $10,000.

More than 280,000 property tax assistance claim forms and about 50,000 rent assistance claim forms have been received since the filing season began May 16, Whitney said. Senior citizens who have already filed should not refile, he added, as this could cause delays in receiving refunds.

Renters or homeowners who think they qualify and have not yet filed should contact the local Franchise Tax Board office for information or claim forms.

Times Hometown news

Elliott took an early lead on the wrong foot by proposing that his constituency use their wives as "Lion-backers." Specifically, Elliott suggested that each member put his wife to work on the club's fund-raising rummage sale.

Secretary Allan Vincent, shaking his mane sadly, observed that in his experience few Lions had the authority to take their wives to tasks. But Luoma vowed that he ran things around his house — things like the dishwasher and vacuum cleaner — but admitted that he wasn't too sure about jurisdiction in the rummage department.

Finally after being forced to recognize pes- demonium from the floor, Eliott agreed to issue a personal appeal to the Lions' ladies.

So far the results haven't been tabulated.

Second flub of the week surfaced when a board meeting was called at the home of Ken Berner. But the wrong address was listed for the host-director. It took several hours to round up enough lost Lions to attain a quorum.

Bud Read upheld the star-crossed week for the Rotary Club by getting into a dogfight. But wasn't a combatant — all he wanted to do was negotiate some issue that had arisen between his dog and the canine next door.

A fellow Rotarian offered some consolation, however.

"Bud will forget his pain if he's fined at the next meeting for unauthorized interference in a public dispute", he mused.

A retired Rotarian who never has tired of his colleagues' antics, sent a note to Hal Denham last Friday, asking about his former sidekicks. Elmer Coble "would really like letters or phone calls from all the oldtimers", Hal said.

Discussion on housing for 'seniors'

ALBANY — " Housing Program for Senior Citizens" will be discussed at a session scheduled Aug. 24 in the Albany Senior Center.

Joel Robinzohl of the Community Ownership Coordinating Council will lecture on Cooperative Housing Programs, and members of the Albany city staff will review a home-repair program that includes information on low-interest loans, tool banks, rental assistance, a referral list of handymen, and information on state refunds for low-income families.

"The public is invited to attend the program starting at 10 a.m. a Center spokesman said yesterday.

4.00 - Mark Point Average

The legend continues...

The Mercedes-Benz 280SE Sedan: Heir to a classic.

The 280SE: Subtle dimensions in a 6-cylinder sedan. The car that will spoil you for any other full-sized sedan.

This obvious heir to the Mercedes-Benz reputation for elegance has the look and size of some of the most admired automobiles in the world—the classic 450 Series Sedans. And it adds the performance of a most unusual fuel-injected 6-cylinder engine.

Rest assured: With the 280SE, the legend continues.

The 280SE ("SE" for Super Einspritz, or injection) is powered by the only fuel injected double-overhead camshaft, six-cylinder engine available in the United States. It uses a simplified Continuous Injection System for injecting fuel that offers distinct advantages over delicate electronic systems.

The system completely replaces the conventional carburetor. It automatically compensates for weather conditions, engine load and altitude—and meters precisely the right amount of fuel to the engine at precisely the right instant.

Benefits: Immediate response, smooth and powerful acceleration.

Note: Mercedes-Benz was among the pioneers of fuel injection back in 1935, and has had electronic fuel injection since 1970. While others may now extol their newly developed electronic devices, Mercedes-Benz is now in its third generation of fuel injection systems with highly reliable continuous injection.

The engine to which the fuel injection system is wedded is the famous 6-cylinder Mercedes-Benz double-overhead camshaft power plant. The double-overhead cam configuration provides smoother engine operation at all speeds and eliminates the need for pushrods and lifters.

Smooth performance is engineered all through the 280SE engine. The light-alloy cylinder head has intake and exhaust manifolds arranged on a cross-flow principle to improve fuel and air mixture flow and ensure optimum combustion. The forged-steel crankshaft is supported by seven massive main bearings that smooth away vibration. The exhaust valves are engineering marvels; they shed damaging heat by means of sodium-filled cores. And the valve seats are armored with nimonic metal to resist shock.

As a final capstone to the engine's smooth performance, two special shock absorbers mounted on either side of the power plant reduce the transmission of vibration to the passenger compartment.

Suspense-free suspension

The advanced front suspension system of the 280SE derives from the famous C-111 high-speed research vehicle. It has many advantages: Extremely precise steering control with instant response, almost no tilting of the car in cornering and braking, straight-line control under heavy braking and on rough roads. Better road-holding ability under all conditions.

Here is a pleasant footnote to this laudatory list: All ball joints in the front suspension of the 280SE are lubricated for life. Furthermore, they are completely maintenance free.

Matched to the remarkable fully independent front suspension is a fully independent rear suspension that does its share in creating the 280SE's incomparable roadability. It helps eliminate the suspense you may have experienced in rigid-axle cars.

Safe, straight steering and stopping

Its precisely engineered power-assisted linkage, coupled with a zero-offset steering mechanism, ensures the 280SE's driver of exquisite maneuverability and tautly controlled handling in any road situation.

And in the event of a frontal collision, the steering column is designed to yield for the driver's safety. In addition, a padded steering wheel and energy-absorbing hub are specially designed to further reduce the effects of an impact. Mercedes-Benz also pioneered the use of dual-circuit power disc brakes on all four wheels, starting in 1968. In the 280SE, the front discs are internally ventilated.

Touches of a classic

Every interior detail of the 280SE Sedan shows a concern with both form and function. The handsomely tailored front seats are individually adjustable six ways: up and down, forward and back, and in the tilt of the seat back. All of the seats are anatomically correct, and are made in Mercedes-Benz's own upholstery shops. Doors are held securely closed by the patented "tapered cone" lock, strong enough to lift the weight of the entire car.

Panels, levers, handles, and even the sun visors are padded or recessed for safety. The dashboard—stark, elegant, functional—presents the car's complete instrumentation with unobstructed clarity. The padded steering wheel is designed for long-distance driver comfort. Reach out, and at your fingertips are controls for power windows, climate control, AM/FM stereo radio, and driver-controlled central locking system.

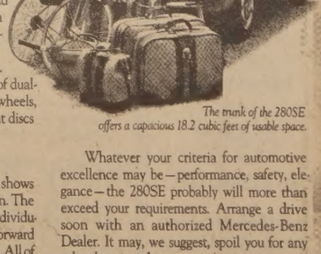

The look of a leader

As with all Mercedes-Benz cars, the exterior of the 280SE has a distinctive elegance that bespeaks leadership. The elegance derives naturally out of the car's engineering; it is not imposed.

Consider: A continuous sweep of tinted glass provides panoramic visibility all around. Wraparound bumpers blend in discreetly, yet provide unsurpassed protection. Above the front bumper, headlights, signals, and the famous grill present a strikingly attractive face to the world. Behind the car, aerodynamically ribbed signal lights reject grime to stay brightly visible under the foulest of road circumstances.

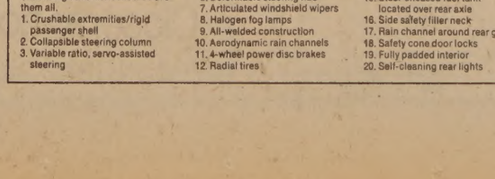

Safety, first and last

Everything fundamental to your safety and comfort is standard with the 280SE; Mercedes-Benz has never viewed these most important factors as "optional extras." That is because Mercedes-Benz engineers create only cars that are totally integrated engineering designs.

The trunk of the 280SE offers a capacious 18.2 cubic feet of usable space.

Whatever your criteria for automotive excellence may be—performance, safety, elegance—the 280SE probably will more than exceed your requirements. Arrange a drive soon with an authorized Mercedes-Benz Dealer. It may, we suggest, spoil you for any other luxury sedan.

You will find some of them in other makes. But Mercedes-Benz believes that any car built for modern driving conditions should have them all.

$36.6 million budget approved by Peralta

ALBANY — Peralta Community College District Trustees have adopted a $36.6 million unrestricted general fund budget for the 1977-78 year, a move which will reduce the tax rate by 7.8 cents. Trustees approved the new budget at a meeting held Aug. 2 at Merritt College.

The action included approval of a 5.5 per cent salary increase for classified, management and confidential employes only. Memorandum of Understanding have been reached with classified employe groups, and include maintenance of current fringe benefits and annual and longevity increments.

Similar benefits will be maintained for management and confidential employes as well as for certificated teaching employes. Memorandums of Understanding have not been reached with all of the certificated groups and therefore no pay increase was approved pending collective bargaining.

Under California's new collective bargaining law for public school districts, it is necessary to determine an exclusive bargaining unit. Elections to select the exclusive bargaining units for classified and certificated employes are in the planning stages.

Last year's tax rate in the major portion of the Peralta District was 88.8 cents per hundred dollars assessed valuation (in Plumas County, because taxpayers do not pay for bond redemption, it was 75.2 cents). Monday's board action would establish a rate of 81 cents — in Plumas County, 68.8 cents.

Under existing statutes Peralta could have raised an additional $876,000 in taxes not included in the budget.

"These savings to the Peralta taxpayer represents this Board's commitment to fiscal responsibility and prudent district management while maintaining adequate levels of support for Peralta activities and personnel," Chancellor Thomas W. Fryer Jr. told the meeting.

The percentage increase in total dollar revenue from local taxpayers over last year is 5.3 percent, he said. "From revenues generated by the secured tax roll, the increase is 6.9 percent. This means that property values in Peralta have appreciated at a significantly faster rate than Peralta taxes on district properties.

"The proposed budget shows that Peralta is in a good state of fiscal health." However, he said, the 4.6 per cent decline in enrollment during the last year "alters significantly both the present picture and future prospects." (The enrollment decline cited refers to the drop in the number of full time students or their equivalent, on which financial aid is based.)

The Peralta Community College District consists of College of Alameda, Feather River College, Laney College, Merritt College, Peralta College for Non-Traditional Study and The East Bay Skills Center. These are public community colleges, tuition-free to the residents of Alameda, Albany, Emeryville, Berkeley, Oakland, Piedmont and Plumas County.

Trustees, each of whom must reside in a specific trustee area but who are elected at large, will hold their next meeting on Tuesday, Sept. 6, at College of Alameda.

The appointment, which followed an extensive recruitment and screening process, was made by Peralta Community College District Trustees during their regular meeting.

Since 1972, Fox has been dean of students at Metropolitan Community College in Minneapolis, Minn. He was associated with Parsons College in Fairfield, Iowa, in various administrative positions, and served as dean of students from June, 1970, to August, 1972.

Fox is a graduate of Parsons College, holds a master of arts in education degree in student personnel from the University of Northern Iowa, did advanced study at the Harvard Institute for Education Management, and is a graduate of the Officers Candidate School at Indiana Military Academy.

Among his affiliations is the National Association of Student Personnel Administrators. He is a board member of the Urban League Street Academy. Fox was a Phelps-Stokes Scholar, Caribbean American Scholars Exchange Program, in January, 1976, and has been chosen an Outstanding Educator in America and an Outstanding Young Man in America.

Albany Bowl

Al Collins leads in Mixed Fives

By PHIL ALSTON

ALBANY — Al Collins — not to be confused with San Francisco's garrulous radio personality — has been the star of the show all summer long in the Post Office Mixed Fives League at Albany Bowl, but last week he outdid himself.

Opening with a strike-filled 231 game, Collins followed with 193 and 215 for 639. Both his first game and series total were the league's best of the season and served to raise his average to 179.

Another noteworthy performance came in the Special loop where Norris contributed 245 and 623 series.

James Holland and Sousa dominated the Scratch Trios with 802 and 800, respectively. House hit 226-597 to lead Trios, and Bill James inserted a 234 game into the middle of his 562 for Morrison Memorial.

Debbie's Doobies gained first place in Jubilee Mixed with a 2-1 decision over Pops N The behind Mark Valente's cluster. Leon Brooks' third game for Pops averted a Doobies sweep.

The JBBJ foursome climbed into a tie for the place with Team One dumping Dolphens 3-0 with the help of Jake Jacobsen's 213-559.

Rhea Lacy, veteran member of the Albany Travelers League, gave her teammates a sparkling game and the lift they needed for a 2-1 decision over Team Six.

Mike Grahn fashioned a 648 series as he and Ed Cabral finished the house eliminations for the Bay Area Summer Doubles tournament in first place with 1205-191-1396. Grahn's 246 finale earned him money in the optional high game competition.

Track coach sets meet on cross country

ALBANY — Albany High School students interested in participating in cross-country are invited to attend a cross country meeting this evenig at five, in front of the Albany High gymnasium.

The session has been scheduled by Track Coach Joe Cruz "to acquaint students with general conditioning prior to the cross country runs."

St. Ambrose basketball

ALBANY — Sign-ups for St. Ambrose Basketball will be conducted Saturday from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. in the Albany Community Center. Youngsters from grades four through eight are eligible.

Those desiring additional information may call 527-0273 or 527-6976.

Punt, Pass and Kick competition scheduled

ALBANY — Local youngsters will be dusting off their footballs and loosening up their throwing arms soon for the 1977 Punt, Pass and Kick competition.

Registration of contestants will be accepted at Albany Ford, 836 San Pablo Ave., from Aug. 19 through September 30. The meet will be held at Cougar Field beginning at 10 a.m. on October 8.

This year the local level of PP&K will be co-sponsored by Albany Ford in conjunction with participating Ford Dealers in the area.

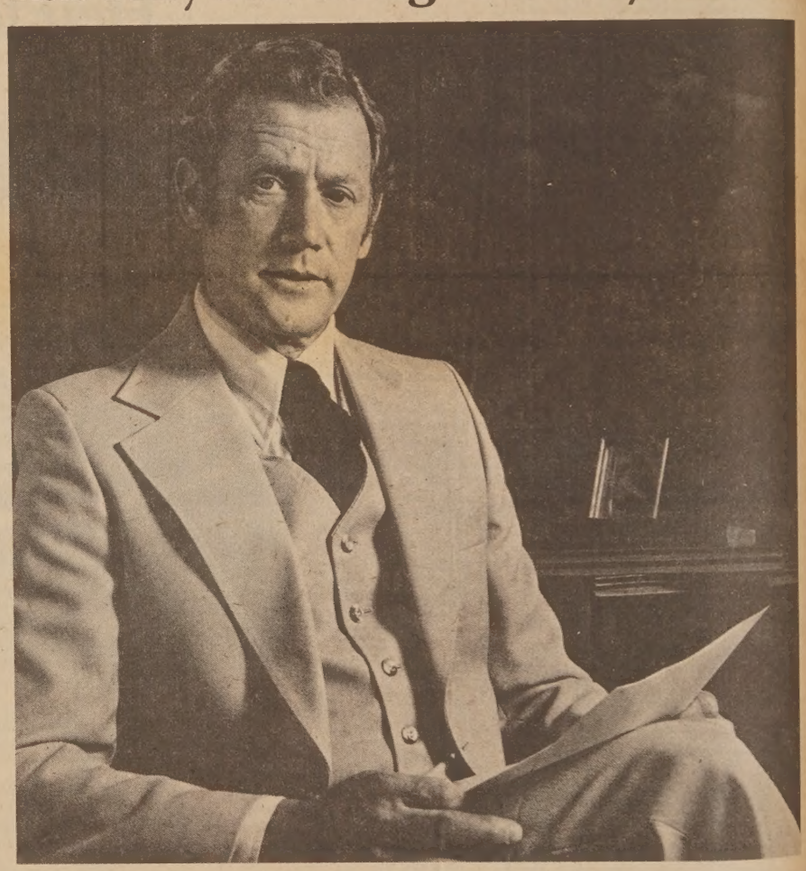

Nationally PP&K is celebrating its 17th anniversary. It is sponsored by the Ford Dealers of America in cooperation with the National Football League. Since it was started in 1961, the program has attracted more than 14 million youngsters — and participation this year is expected to top the 1,300 mark.

Participants in the Punt, Pass & Kick program compete only against others their own age. Any youngster 8 through 13 years of age, accompanied by a parent or guardian, may register to compete in PP&K at any participating Ford Dealer. There is no entrance fee and no body contact during competition. No special equipment is needed and participating does not impar a youngster's amateur standing.

Scoring is based on distance and accuracy with one point added for every foot the ball is punted, passed or kicked, and a point subtracted for every foot it lands off a center line.

Twelve national finalists wil compete for the National Championships in their age group at Super Bowl XII in New Orleans on January 15, 1978. Winners will have their names permanently inscribed in the Pro Football Hall of Fame in Canton, Ohio. Their trophies will be presented by National Football League Commissioner Pete Rozelle.

Editor
Dear Sir:

I must confess to a great deal of puzzlement after reading the article about the goals of the Recall Committee in last week's Times. I've read the article several times and I'm still not sure what their goals actually are.

If anything, the stated goals appear to be a continuation of what we already have under our present council, namely: effective law enforcement, a thriving business community, excellent schools (actually under the jurisdiction of the School Board), and that intangible quality that makes a community a good place to live and raise a family.

Nowehere in the article did I find which specific policies, if any, this group proposes to change. There is an implication, however, that the group as a whole, or Janis Mulhall at least, is upset at the size of the current budget (incorrectly referred to as "in excess of $5 million"). Perhaps they don't realize that the current budget is larger than in the past largely because of the current council's ability to obtain federal grants for a number of projects, including the Senior Center expansion, the Middle School Park, improvements to Memorial Park, and the current housing conservation program, among others. If the Recall Committee is against any or all of these programs, they should say so.

They have also charged that our various citizens' committees are being "systematically stacked with the council majority's small but dedicated band of supporters." As a hard-working member of two of these committees (Waterfront and Land Use), I resent the implication that I am somehow a part of some underhanded conspiricy. On the contrary, both of the committees on which I serve have performed invaluable services for our community, and have done so in a completely open and objective manner. If the Recall Committee disagrees with the work of these committees or any other committee, they should have the decency to make specific charges.

I would like to think that the Recall Committee is motivated by good intentions, but the constant supply of misinformation coming from this group must surely cause one to wonder. If they wish to propose changes in budgeting priorities, city personnel, or some aspect of city policy, they should do so directly, not by implication, and they should do so now, so that we as voters can know exactly what they stand for.

Sincerely,
HOWARD McNENNY

Editor
Dear Sir:

If the recall committee succeeds in removing Mayor Joyce Jackson, Mike Gleason, and Pat Griffin from the Albany city council they will hve done the citizens of this city a great disservice.

And if they are removed, then what? Is it back to the old, inert crowd that, according to some reports, conducted and concluded the city's business over lunch, then formalized its decisions by voting between 8 and 8:15 of a given Monday evening.

Of one thing we can be certain: In a world that is moving ahead those who stand still are boing backwards. I'm referring to the attempts of the recall committee to persuade our senior citizens (by the way, I'm one, too) that by voting for the recall of Jackson, Gleason, and Griffin the old Albany they used to know will somehow be restored. No way! The sad truth is that the only past that exists is in one's memory, and that can't be restored. Let's face it, we must live today and look forward to tomorrow, not yesterday. Trite, I admit, but true.

I think the current council majority see it that way and have been performing accordingly. I strongly recommend we leave them where they are: in office. Voting them out of office will solve no problems; it will only create new ones.

STEPHEN RADKEY

Editor
Dear Sir:

Why the Recall?

Any observant citizen of Albany who attends Council meetings and talks with Albany residents can list many resons why the Recall is necessary.

At a recent Council meeting Councilman Griffin proposed a motion that he (Councilman Griffin) be appointed to arrange a meeting with the Chancellor at the University of California.

The motion was long and rambling as most motions by Councilman Griffin are.

Councilman Gleason responded: "I don't understand this motion, I don't know what it is all about, but I will second the motion."

The motion passed, 3-2, with Jackson, Griffin and Gleason voting in favor, Howell and Luoma opposed.

I originally voted for Councilman Gleason. However, I soon was disillusioned by his immaturity and lack of sound judgment. I do not believe the citizens of Albany want a councilman voting on any matter until the councilman is informed and understand what he is voting on.

Thank you

LET'S BE FRANK!

It's no secret that home prices have gone up some 26% in the past year, due to the scarcity of new housing caused by many complex reasons. In our 31 years in Albany real estate, we have seen at least 7 major cycles, with price increases, plateaus, and with the next cycle going to an even higher level. It's been a difficult market for buyers in the past 6 months, with few listings, and little opportunity for shopping. There is now every indication that the market has reached a temporary plateau. In the past 2 weeks, many more homes have come onto the market. In other words, the market is reacting as it has for the past 31 years, and we are approaching a normal market. This is great news for buyers! Buyers can now have more selection, andinterest rates are at the lowest point we shall likely ever see!

There is every indication that the upward cycle will start again soon, as recent studies by the State of California show an increasing population and predict higher prices for homes. We urge every home buyer to buy now, because the market is more favorable than it has been or may ever be again, at the current price levels. We believe the homes we have listed are excellent values, and that NOW is the time buyers should be in the market. Inflation is here to stay at an annual rate of around 8% to 10%. Real estate is your best protection against inflation. Invest now!

Francis Drake plate may be a fraud

The famous plate of brass believed to have been left near San Francisco nearly 400 years ago by the English explorer Sir Francis Drake may be a fake, according to the results of new tests.

The plate, with its inscription claiming the land for "Herr Maiesty Qveen Elizabeth of England," has long been a popular attraction for visitors to The Bancroft Library on the University of California's Berkeley campus, where it is on permanent public display.

According to accounts by several of his crew, Drake had a plate installed at the site on the California coast where he refitted for a month in 1579 before sailing across the Pacific Ocean to complete the first voyage around the world by an English navigator.

When the plate now in The Bancroft Library was found in 1936, it was hailed as the discovery of the long-lost historical treasure.

Detailed new metallurgical examinations and a close microscopic look at the plate, however, now indicate the brass is of relatively recent origin, James D. Hart, director of the library, announced today.

"If the plate is indeed a modern creation," Hart said, "numerous questions about it remain unanswered, including who created it and why it should be left at an isolated spot where it might never be found."

Although the investigators involved in the recent tests did not flatly state the plate is a forgery, the assembled evidence "has turned out to be essentially negative," Hart said.

The plate has never been completely free of suspicion since it was found under some rocks on a hillside near the shore of San Francisco Bay in Marin County, even though metallurgical tests done soon after its discovery seemed to support its authenticity.

There were dissenting opinions even then, both as to the age of the metal and the wording of the text. The doubts have persisted.

UC's Lawrence Berkeley Laboratory (LBL) and the Research Laboratory for Archaeology and the History of Art at Oxford University in England were chosen to analyze the plate's brass. Small samples of metal were taken from three locations on the plate.

Brass is an alloy made by combining various metals, mainly copper and zinc. The exact composition has changed over the centuries as techniques for brass manufacture have improved and impurities were reduced. An estimate of the age of an unknown brass can be made by comparing its chemical composition with that of brasses of known age.

The Oxford laboratory compared the results of its analyses with 22 examples of English and Cintinental brasses created between 1540 and 1720. LBL made comparisons with old brasses ranging from the 14th to the 18th centuries.

The analyses of the two laboratories revealed levels of zinc, lead, copper and other substances that were inconsistent with brass composition of the period.

The results of the LBL team of scientists, headed by Helen V. Michel and Frank Asare, indicate the plate was made after the early part of the 19th century because of the high zinc content. The purity of the copper also indicates it was made after the development of copper deposits in the Great Lakes region of the United States in the 19th or 20th century.

The team used a number of analytical techniques for the study, including neuron activation, X-ray fluorescence and emission spectroscopy.

Perhaps the most damaging report as to the plate's authenticity came from Cyril S. Smith of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, who gave the plate a detailed binocular microscopic examination. He found, contrary to earlier studies, no evidence that the plate was made by hammering, the 16th century process, rather than by the modern method of rolling.

He also found that the edge of the plate had none of the qualities of chisel cutting that would be expected in the 16th century, but instead looked as if it had been straight-cut by the modern device of a guillotine shear and then hammered to obscure the shear marks.

Other objections to the plate's authenticity have been raised over the years because of the wording and lettering of the inscription. Knowledgeable critics have argued that Drake would have left a "more imposing piece of brass," and that Queen Elizabeth would have been given more prominence in the text.

The plate was found in the summer of 1936 by the late Beryle Shinn, who at that time was a 26-year-old Oakland department store clerk. Accounts of Shinn's story vary, but scholars and reporters who questioned him found no significant discrepancies in his tale and felt he was telling the truth.

He and a group of friends were out for a picnic in Marin County when his car had a blowout along what is now called Sir Francis Drake Boulevard near Greenbrae.

BEE IT KNOWNE VNTO ALL MEN BY THESE PRESENTS
IVNE. 17. 1579.
BY THE GRACE OF GOD AND IN THE NAME OF HERR MAIESTY QVEEN ELIZABETH OF ENGLAND AND HERR SVCCESSORS FOREVER I TAKE POSSESSION OF THIS KINGDOME WHOSE KING AND PEOPLE FREELY RESIGNE THEIR RIGHT AND TITLE IN THE WHOLE LAND VNTO HERR MAIESTIES KEEPEING NOW NAMED BY ME AN TO BEE KNOWNE VNTO ALL MEN AS NOVA ALBION.
G FRANCIS DRAKE

Shinn apparently had a friend who had taken a course at Berkeley from Prof. Herbert E. Bolton, a distinguished scholar of western history. Bolton had for years been telling his students to keep an eye out for Drake's plate. At the friend's urging, Shinn took the plate to Bolton, who declared "the authenticity of the tablet seems to me beyond all reasonable doubt."

Shinn wanted no money for his discovery. Eventually, a gift of $3,500 was given him by the California Historical Society, which gave the plate to the Bancroft Library and raised money to have the original metallurgical tests made.

Albany area club news

ALBANY LIONS CLUB

A "Lions' Night With the A's" is scheduled September 9, Henry Kruse, Jr., editor of the Albany Lampoon, announced today, "and Past President Don Chelemedos has the tickets," Kruse added. "The tickets sell for the regular five-dollar price and the club makes a good profit, so we're urging members to sell plenty and buy plenty for themselves — it's a real fun night."

Also on the agenda is the club's art auction, to be held in the Turf Club at Golden Gate Fields on the evening of September 23. Each Lion is being asked to provide a list giving the names and addresses of 20 friends who will be invited to attend.

"The affair will be run by a prominent art distributor and a number of choice paintings will be offered for sale," Kruse said. "Naturally, there is no obligation to buy, but we're hoping to attract a record crowd — art auctions are a lot of fun. We're hoping to make this the biggest Albany Lions Club party of the year. There will be refreshments for all, and some lucky buyer may pick up a masterpiece for a mere pittance."
